Subject: Uganda Update, Saturday, August 10

This will be brief and only to tell the story of a young man I met this past Monday. He went door to door with us, translating for us as we shared Christ.

I shall not use his name but only say he was born in a Muslim family and at age eleven, he began to learn about Jesus. As time went by, he became a believer and this so angered his father, that he poured boiling water on his arm. Today he is in his twenties and his life continues to be threatened by his father and he told me there are areas in Kampala that he cannot go to avoid being killed.

He just came to see me to get some Lugandan Bibles so he can take them to families we shared Christ with. Luganda is the language spoken in this part of Uganda. In all, there are 61 different tribal languages spoken here in Uganda.

When you think about it, pray for Bob's new friend with the scarred arm.

God bless,
Bob
