

Tuesday, May 18 Uganda Update. First off, somehow I get the wrong location for our conference, we are not in Bushenyi, but nearby in Ntugamo, in the South Ankole Diocese of the Church of Uganda. The Bishop is Nathan Ahimbisibwe and is pictured below with Dr. Krabbendam. The cathedral is a beautiful building and is a great venue for this youth conference. Just understand, that in Uganda, you can be part of the youth right up to age 30.

Our program has been to challenge and train these young people in the ministry of evangelism. I believe that Dr. Krabbendam is correct when he says one of the reasons the United States is in the condition that it is, results from a failure of the American church to do the work of evangelism. It is very interesting to see an 85 year old American college professor get nearly 600 Ugandan youth on their feet while singing and dancing. The conference is advertised as a "Scientific Conference." We were told the science part is awareness of the spread of covid-19, masks and social distancing which satisfies the government for such a large event to take place.

The materials we use can be found on my Uganda site at <https://ugandamission.net/hk.html>

In addition to Dr. K, our team includes Martin Odi, a Ugandan Pastor I have known since 1994 when Rod Mortenson and I worked with him, and Bill Hamilton, an evangelist with REF in Brazil who is on his seventh trip to Uganda.

We will finish around 1:00 p.m. tomorrow and then make our way back to the Entebbe Road guest house. Then on Thursday I go for a 2½ day ministry at Kyamagemule and Nyanzi with George Yawe. On Sunday I go to Seeta Nazigo with Moses Odokoje.

I made a brief video of the 600 young folks singing "O The Blood of Jesus" first in English and then in Ankole and going to post it on my website if I can figure out how.

South Ankole Cathedral

A view of the conference

Bill Hamilton Sharing

Martin Odi Sharing

Bishop Ahimbisibwe & Dr. K.

The conference was livestreamed