Morning Star School in Mutungo Uganda was started a few years ago by Pastor Sam Kisembo to provide education for orphans and other poor children in the Mutungo area. The school has grown rapidly and it has been difficult to keep up with suitable buildings to house the growing student body. The photo to the right shows the very basic structures which make up Morning Star School.

A mission team from Florida provided twenty-six new desks for students (three to four students per desk) and that was a big help that also boosted the spirits of teachers and students alike. One of the truck load of desks is pictured below.

But even with the nice new desks, the building are still very basic, even inadequate. This needs to be corrected as students U g a n d a to be met to issue reveals two other issues. The first is the funds for building construction. Another team from to travel to Mutungo in July of 2010 for a three construction effort.

But before that takes place, Morning Star need to purchase several acres of land adjacent to their present property. Some of the students are seen to the right on the needed land, praying that God would provide the $15,000 needed for the land.
